

Prof Nadey S Hakim KCJSJ, MD, PhD, FRCS, FRCSI, FACS, FICS(Hon), FASBMS

Qualified in 1984 from Paris Rene Descartes University as a Laureate of the Faculty of Medicine. Surgical training Guy's Hospital. PhD in small bowel transplantation from University College London. Completed a Gastrointestinal Fellowship at the Mayo Clinic and a multiorgan transplant fellowship at the University of Minnesota. Currently Surgical Director of the Transplant Unit at Imperial College Healthcare NHS Trust London. Member of the Bariatric team at Charing Cross Hospital. Research Interest in Kidney and pancreas Transplantation.

Has over 150 peer-reviewed publications and has authored/edited 18 textbooks in Transplantation Surgery. Editor in Chief of International Surgery and on the Editorial Board of Transplant Proceedings, Graft, Experimental and Clinical Transplantation and of several other journals. Member of the International Team which performed the First Arm transplant in the world 1998, Past President of the International College of Surgeons (ICS) 2004-2006, Awarded the 2007 J Wesley Alexander Transplantation Award.

Examiner at the RCS Eng. Member of the Laryngeal Transplantation Committee RCS, Trustee of the Dispensaire Francais in London. Member of the Kidney-Pancreas Committee of the American Society of Transplantation (AST), London School of Surgery Transplant Tutor 2008 to date.

Member of the RSM since 1984. Past-President of the Transplantation Section of the Royal Society Medicine 2003-2004.

Professor Hakim hopes to achieve links between the RSM and other medical societies and institutions around the world. He will continue to work hard helping with fundraising.