Depending on the journal you would like to find, this may bring up several titles – both from the Library’s print collection and electronic titles. For e-journals, you will see ‘electronic resource’ after the title.

This is what it looks like for the Lancet. From the search result, click on Available in ClinicalKey eJournals to access this. For other journals, you may see several links from various sources – just choose the one that covers the year(s) you need.
